

Ethan Branch has served as a School Liaison Officer at Fort Benning since 2018. He is a graduate of Auburn University with a background in Secondary Social Science Education. After graduating, he taught high school history in the state of Alabama for four years. He and his wife, Katie, have a one-year-old daughter.

One of the most important duties he performs as a SLO is supporting military families during educational transitions. In his current role for Child and Youth Services, he is passionate about helping schools, the installation, and families work together for student achievement.
